“The Great U.S. Cannabis Experiment: Effects on Driving Is the Number One Short Term Consequence.”

*Dr. Marilyn Huestis, PhD., Senior Scientific Advisor
NMS Labs Inc., Willow Grove, PA*

The increased use of cannabis following legalization in eight states and approval of medical cannabis in 28 states has important short-term and long-term consequences for the public. The most important short-term consequence is increased motor vehicle crash injuries and deaths. Interpretation of blood cannabinoid data is complicated by chronic frequent cannabis intake. This problem affirms the important role of the DRE impairment evaluation and markers of recent cannabis intake. The results of the first study of an illicit drug in the world's most advanced driving simulator with and without alcohol, the rapidity of THC decreases in blood after intake, and the relationship between blood THC concentration and DRE evaluations will be presented.

Spit It Out! Implementation and Validity of Roadside Oral Fluid Testing.

Amy Miles, Director of Forensic Toxicology, Wisconsin State Lab of Hygiene, Madison, WI

Christine Moore, Vice President, Immunalysis, Pomona, CA

Erin Holmes, Director of Traffic Safety, Foundation for Advancing Alcohol Responsibility, Arlington, VA

Matt Alsaker, Sergeant, Dane County Sheriff, Madison, WI

Roadside oral fluid testing is quickly becoming a reality as an added tool for law enforcement in drug impaired driving investigations. This panel of experts will cover a recent oral fluid project and how it was implemented as well as the results and where that leads roadside oral fluid testing for the future. In addition, there will be discussion on various national projects and an examination into the legal landscape of oral fluid collection and testing today. Attendees will learn about successful implementation of a roadside oral fluid project, the validity of the various roadside devices available for law enforcement, and understand the current legal issues surrounding roadside oral fluid testing.
