

Michael A. Caldwell Parliamentarian International Association of Chiefs of Police

Michael A. Caldwell has practiced in every area of labor and employment law for over 47 years. A cofounder of DeLong, Caldwell, Bridgers, Fitzpatrick & Benjamin, LLC in Atlanta, Georgia, he represents Georgia police chiefs and their agencies along with other public and private employers, managers, and employees. For twenty-four years he has served as General Counsel and parliamentarian to the Georgia Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc. and as General Counsel to the Georgia-Alabama Chapter of the FBI National Academy.

Since 1995 he has taught Human Resources Management and Law to thousands of police executives and mid managers who are pursuing graduate degrees at the Law Enforcement Command College of Columbus State University. He also was an adjunct professor of Human Resources Law and Ethics at the Beebe Institute of Personnel and Human Resources Management at the Graduate School of Business at Georgia State University.

He is former Chairman of the Labor and Employment Law Section of the Georgia Bar Association. He cofounded and serves as a Board of Directors Member of the St. Thomas More Society of Atlanta. Michael received his B.A. cum laude in drama from The Catholic University of America Washington D.C. in 1968, and his JD from Catholic University's Columbus School of Law in 1971, where he was a Law Review Editor and Student Director of its Legal Services Program.

Before entering private law practice he was a trial attorney and staff member of the General Counsel's Office at the National Labor Relations Board. He also is an arbitrator and mediator, and serves as a member of the Ethics Commission for the City of Dunwoody, Georgia. His peers have selected Michael as a Georgia SuperLawyer every year since 2012, and Georgia Trend magazine includes him in the list of Georgia's Legal Elite.

Michael's wife, Mary Jane Caldwell, is a shoe designer. The couple live in Dunwoody, Georgia and have one son, Dr. Jon-Michael Caldwell, a graduate of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons and a biomedical engineer from Georgia Tech. Dr. Caldwell currently is a senior orthopedic surgery resident at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York City.
