

JACQUELINE GOODING
Director, Human Resources
International Association of Chiefs of Police

Jacqueline Gooding is Director of Human Resources for the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and is responsible for providing strategic HR counsel and development to staff, and the direction and management of the association's day-to-day Human Resources functions.

Ms. Gooding has worked for a variety of nonprofit organizations where she gained extensive experience in the areas of benefit design, legislation, compliance and cost analysis, recruitment, employee relations, compensation, pension plan management, and collective bargaining.

Ms. Gooding holds a degree in Business Management from Howard University and continues ongoing training through the SHRM and IFEBP organizations.