

IACP CHIEF DAVID CAMERON LEADERSHIP IN ENVIRONMENTAL CRIMES AWARD

The IACP Chief David Cameron Leadership in Environmental Crimes Award recognizes excellence in environmental crimes enforcement. This award is designed to recognize successful criminal enforcement actions undertaken by enforcement officers, enforcement agencies and multi-agency collaborations in the pursuit of justice for the detrimental effects of pollution, wildlife and resource crimes.

The memorial award honors the late David Cameron, Chief of Police in Jackson, Wyoming. Chief Cameron's professionalism and dedication to his community, department, as Chair of the IACP Environmental Crimes Committee and as a member of the IACP Executive Board from 1992-2001 is an exemplar of servant leadership.

Nominee/agency must demonstrate successful enforcement actions in the pursuit of justice for the detrimental effects of pollution, wildlife, and resource crimes.

Submission Tasks

- Contacts (Nominee, Point of Contact, Head of Agency, Nominator)
- Head of Agency Acknowledgement Letter
- Supplemental Materials (optional)

Questions

1. Explain why this individual or agency should be selected for this award. Describe the history, impact, and innovation that make the nomination unique.
2. What were the outcomes or results? If applicable, include evidence of demonstrated success.
3. How does this submission exemplify leadership and how can others benefit from the lessons learned or best practices?
4. Describe the internal and/or external education and communication factors employed to address the environmental issues during and following the enforcement activity (e.g., information sharing among government, NGO's, and the private sector that facilitated the investigation, prosecution, and remedies)
5. Describe the significance of the contribution to the advancement of environmental crime enforcement, public education, and/or safeguarding human health, wildlife, resources and the environment.