Introduction

Victim-centered responses and services are vital to the safety, stability, and healing of crime victims, as their use can ultimately reduce and prevent future victimization.¹ In 2018, to support the development of law enforcement-based victim services in the United States, to strengthen their capacity, and to support partnerships with community-based programs, the U.S. Department of Justice, Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) launched the Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services & Technical Assistance Program (LEV Program). Providing training and technical assistance for the LEV Program, the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) aims to enhance the capacity of law enforcement-based victim services by providing guidance on promising practices, protocols, and policies to support victims' access to their legal rights and the services and responses they need.

The IACP is committed to shaping the future of the police profession. Through timely research, programming, and unparalleled training opportunities, the IACP is preparing current and emerging police leaders—and the agencies and communities they serve—to succeed in addressing the most pressing issues, threats, and challenges of the day.

LEV Publications & Accompanying Webinars

The LEV Program aims to guide agencies to provide high-quality services (coordinated, collaborative, culturally responsive, multidisciplinary, and trauma-informed) that address the broader needs and rights of all crime victims. The following publications can assist in these efforts.

- Establishing or Enhancing Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services—What Are the Key Considerations? and the accompanying Key Considerations Checklist provide guidance to agencies establishing or enhancing services to victims. These publications include an overview of foundational topics for law enforcement-based victim services.
- Victims' Rights Jurisdiction Profiles provide state-specific information on the intersections of victims' rights and communication with victim services personnel.
- Establishing or Enhancing Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services – Advocacy Parameters discusses the structure of law enforcement-based victim services, personnel supervision, and service delivery.
- Establishing or Enhancing Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services – Documentation Standards discusses victim services documentation location, content, access, and legal intersections.
- Establishing or Enhancing Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services – Effective Partnerships discusses the benefits of partnerships and encourages agencies to consider both internal and external partners to strengthen community response to victims.

- Establishing or Enhancing Law Enforcement-Based Victim Services – Using Technology to Communicate with Victims discusses considerations when using virtual technology to communicate with victims.

To supplement the publications, IACP developed a virtual training series, which is accessible through the LEV webpage. Each topic covered has content intended for sworn personnel and content intended for program personnel. This model promotes a thorough understanding of the intricacies of victim services at all levels of a law enforcement agency.

Explanation of Templates

Whether establishing or enhancing a law enforcement-based victim services program, strong policies and standards promote high expectations for victim services personnel and service delivery. This publication includes sample job descriptions, interview questions, onboarding checklist, protocols, and policies. This collection of templates was developed to provide a starting point for agencies but is not an exhaustive list of victim services policies or procedures. These templates were developed through a review of documents from existing law enforcement-based victim services programs.

These templates are intended to provide sample language and content to assess, develop, and refine program and professional victim service standards within agencies. These templates should be customized to fit standard procedure in format, language, and intent. It is recommended that all templates be carefully reviewed to ensure information is consistent with agency, tribal, statutory, and constitutional requirements within your jurisdiction and reviewed by internal human resources and legal departments.

This is the first document in the Template Package series. The following template packages have been published—

- Template Package II: Next Steps provides case response protocol templates, scenarios, and documentation samples
- Template Package III: Student Interns & Volunteers provides templates for recruiting, screening and selection, training, supervision, and other agency considerations for student interns and volunteers.
- Template Package IV: Pamphlets includes sample crime-specific and topic-specific informational pamphlets for agencies to customize and disseminate to victims of crime.
- Template Package V: Training includes customizable presentations and activity workbooks agencies can use for victim services personnel training.

Training

In addition to core practices and policies, victim services personnel must also receive discipline-specific training to stay current in the field and establish and maintain a consistent set of skills and knowledge.

Training that is skills-based and grounded in adult learning theory is not only beneficial to victim services personnel, but often that training can be maximized throughout agencies by sharing information learned with other disciplines, with system professionals, and with partners at community agencies. Additionally, quality training is essential to ensuring crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims are afforded the rights, services, and responses they need.

Training can be resource intensive, but there are affordable and accessible options for all victim services personnel at any agency. While they are not intended to be an exhaustive list of training opportunities, starting points for agencies may include Victim Assistance Training (VAT) Online and State Victim Assistance Academies.

Victim Assistance Training (VAT) Online

The Victim Assistance Training (VAT) Online is a widely used learning management system (LMS) platform for victim services providers across the county. This is a no-cost, online program developed and hosted by the Office for Victims of Crime that is routinely updated to ensure access to the most current content.

VAT Online is a 40-hour training divided into modules, which include the basics of victim services, core competencies and skills, crime specific topics, and specific considerations for working with certain populations. More can be learned at VAT Online.

State Victim Assistance Academy

Most states offer State Victim Assistance Academies to victims services providers. Often these offerings are in-person trainings, which allow for interactive education, skill building, and networking opportunities.

To learn more if your state offers this type of opportunity, please visit OVC's State Victim Assistance Academies website.

- Victim, Witness, Survivor, Co-victim—any person (minor or adult) who directly experiences or is impacted by a crime or criminal activity.
 - Victim is an individual who is an independent participant in the criminal case under federal or state victims’ rights laws or tribal victims’ rights codes, denotes a person’s legal status (unavailable to the general public), and defines the level and extent of participation that the individual is entitled to in the criminal matter.
 - Witness is an individual who has personal knowledge of information or actions that are relative to the incident being investigated.
 - Survivor is often used interchangeably with “victim” when conveying context related to resilience and healing.

This publication was developed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) under 2018-V3-GX-K049, awarded by the Office for Victims of Crime, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice. TEMPLATE – Victim Services Code of Ethics

Templates in this series provide sample language and content to help assess, develop, and refine professional victim service standards. [Agency]

Victim Services Code of Ethics⁴

The victim services profession developed in response to needs of crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims. Victim services personnel (staff, volunteers, student interns) appreciate and encourage the inherent diversity and unique values of all human beings through adherence to an established Code of Ethics. In so doing, victim services personnel demonstrate competent and responsible practice, aid in protecting the public from exploitation and safeguard the reputation of the profession.

Victim services personnel take on many roles including crisis interventionist, resource provider, educator, consultant, and liaison. The following standards are written with these multi-faceted roles in mind, and with the knowledge that all crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims deserve to be ethically treated with fairness, dignity, and respect.

Role of Victim Services Personnel

- Victim services personnel understand their legal responsibilities, limitations, and the implications of their actions within the service delivery setting and perform duties in accordance with laws, regulations, policies, and legislated rights of persons served.
- Victim services personnel accurately represent their professional title, qualifications, and/or credentials to persons served and the general public.
- Victim services personnel achieve and maintain a high level of professional competence and conduct. Victim services personnel work within their area of competence and strive towards continued professional development.

Direct Services

- Victim services personnel respect and protect the statutory rights of crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims to the best of their ability.
- Victim services personnel recognize the interest of the person served as a primary responsibility.
- Victim services personnel identify the nature of the helping relationship from the onset, as well as inform crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims of the limitations of services.
- Victim services personnel respect and protect the capacity for self-determination for all crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims. They also recognize each person's ability to receive or refuse services.

⁴ Adapted from OVC Model Standards (n.d.) and NASW Code of Ethics (2017).

- Victim services personnel refrain from behaviors that communicate victim blame, suspicion regarding victim accounts of the crime, condemnation for past behavior, or other judgmental, anti-victim sentiment.
- Victim services personnel maintain the privacy of crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims when possible and abide by agency guidelines, local, state, and federal laws. Privacy is maintained before, during, and after the course of the professional relationship. Confidentiality is limited for system-based advocates. Victim services personnel clearly understand limitation of confidentiality and communicate this limitation to persons served.
- If it is suspected that danger or harm may occur to crime victims, witnesses, survivors, or co-victims or to others as a result of the behavior of crime victims, witnesses, survivors, or co-victims; victim services personnel act in an appropriate and professional manner to protect the safety of those individuals. This may involve seeking consultation, supervision, and/or breaking the privacy of the relationship.
- Victim services personnel avoid conflicts of interest and disclose any possible conflict to the program, prospective programs, and persons served.
- Victim services personnel do not engage in personal relationships with persons served which exploit professional trust or which could impair objectivity and professional judgment. Victim services personnel never engage in any kind of social, business, friendship, dating, or sexual relationship with persons involved in victim services cases, including crime victims, witnesses, survivors, co-victims, family members, friends, and offenders.
- Victim services personnel do not accept any type of gratuities or gifts from persons involved in Victim services cases including crime victims, witnesses, survivors, co-victims, family members, friends, and offenders.
- Victim services personnel terminate services and refer victims to appropriate agencies after their needs are met within the Victim Services Unit.
- Victim services personnel participate in opportunities and activities that promote self-care and reduce compassion fatigue to aid in the provision of optimal services to victims.

Dignity and Respect of the Individual

- Victim services personnel respect the integrity and welfare of crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims always. Each person served is treated with fairness, dignity, respect, and acceptance.
- Victim services personnel do not discriminate against crime victims, witnesses, survivors, or co-victims or another staff member based on race/ethnicity, language, sex/gender, age, sexual orientation, (dis)ability, social class, economic status, education, marital status, religious affiliation, residency, HIV status, or medical condition.
- Victim services personnel acknowledge the cultures and communities within which they are active. They are aware of and respect multiculturalism in society and its impact on the beliefs of individuals and groups within the community. Victim services personnel are aware of their own cultural backgrounds, beliefs, and values, recognizing the potential for impact on their relationships with others.

- Victim services personnel make good-faith efforts to ensure that services are accessible, suitable, and secure for clients from a variety of personal backgrounds.

Community Collaboration

- Victim services personnel conduct relationships with colleagues and other professionals in such a way as to promote mutual respect, public confidence, and improved service.
- Victim services personnel share knowledge and encourage proficiency in victim assistance among colleagues and other professionals.
- Victim services personnel support colleagues, who may be experiencing secondary trauma, and seek to encourage appropriate services.
- Victim services personnel serve the public interest by contributing to the improvement of systems that impact crime victims, witnesses, survivors, and co-victims.

Administration and Evaluation

- When victim services personnel experience conflict with or observe unethical behavior by another advocate, human service professional, or criminal justice representative, they first attempt to address the issue with that person. If necessary, victim services personnel seek appropriate supervisory guidance to address the issue. If no resolution is forthcoming, victim services personnel will report the behavior to supervisory/administrative staff and/or the organization to which the individual belongs.
- Victim services personnel report to appropriate authorities the conduct of any colleague or other professional (including oneself) that constitutes mistreatment of a person served or that brings the profession into dishonor.

I understand the above Code of Ethics and agree to abide by all terms during the duration of my tenure with [Agency] Victim Services.

TEMPLATE – Victim/Witness Interview Protocol

Templates in this series provide sample language and content to help assess, develop, and refine professional victim service standards. You should customize this Victim/Witness Interview Protocol template to fit your agency in terms of format, language, and intent. Agency personnel, including legal counsel and human resources staff, should review this template to ensure information is consistent with local jurisdiction requirements.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this protocol is to establish consistent guidelines for victim services personnel assistance during victim/witness interviews.

PROCEDURE:

1. Investigators will notify and coordinate with the assigned victim services personnel when they plan to schedule an interview with a crime victim or witness. Investigators may also request that the victim services personnel contact the victim/witness to schedule the interview. Logistical concerns, such as the need for transportation assistance or short-term accompaniment of children or vulnerable adults during the interview, will be identified by the assigned victim services personnel.
2. When the victim/witness arrives for the scheduled interview, the victim services personnel will meet the victim/witness in the lobby, adhere to established check-in procedures, and escort the victim/witness to the victim services office. The victim/witness will be assessed for comfort and immediate basic needs (e.g., beverage, snack, blanket, shoes).

 - d. What to expect during the investigative process and the overall criminal justice system
5. The victim services personnel will offer to accompany the victim/witness during the interview. If the investigator determines that victim services personnel should not be present during the interview, the investigator will notify the victim services personnel of this in advance, so this option is not offered to the victim/witness. If the victim services personnel accompany the victim/witness during the interview, the victim services personnel will identify themselves by name and position, so this information is recorded during the interview process.

6. Prior to engaging in the victim/witness interview, the investigator and victim services personnel will discuss their respective roles and expectations related to the interview process.
