This application is owned and operated by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP). This Privacy Policy applies only to this mobile site. By merely visiting this site, you are accepting the terms and condition set forth in this Privacy Policy. If you do not agree with this Privacy Policy, you are not permitted to use the Sites. This policy does not apply to other entities that are not owned or controlled by IACP, nor does it apply to persons that are not employees or agents of IACP.

However, there are links to other sites on this application. This privacy policy applies solely to information collected in connection with this application. IACP is not responsible for the privacy practices of other applications or websites that may be linked to this application. IACP encourages users to read the privacy policies of such other applications, websites, and/or third party advertisers listed on such links when connected to such sites via this application. Furthermore, IACP encourages you to ask questions before you disclose your personal information to others.

IACP does not collect any information about users of this application that would make them personally or individually identifiable. Any information that could identify you will not be disclosed without your express written consent.

Only authorized employees or agents are permitted to have access to personally identifiable data about users of this application, and that access is limited to what is reasonably needed to perform an employee's responsibilities, such as providing updates or notices or customer service.

Users may voluntarily email IACP using the "Contact Us" icon, which opens the user's mail browser. This tool is only for communication with IACP staff.

We do not use cookies, nor do we disclose any information about website usage to outside parties.

IACP reserves all of the rights, including but not limited to any and all copyrights, trademarks, patents, trade secrets, and any other proprietary rights in respect to this application. By making services available to you (the user), the site administrator is not providing you with any implied or express licenses or rights, and you will have no rights to make any commercial use of this website or IACP-affiliated websites.

If you voluntarily provide personally identifiable information to IACP, such as name, email address, address, phone number and/or other similar identifiable information, you are no longer anonymous to IACP. We may use this information to respond to an email or other inquiry, to help improve the application and our services, to better customize your experience with this application, or to send updates or notices to you about IACP. However, we will not share your personally identifiable information with anyone outside IACP and its affiliated entities (except as otherwise provided below). IACP will use commercially reasonable methods to protect the security of information and data that may be voluntarily submitted by you to IACP.

IACP reserves the right to disclose your information, without notice, if required to do so by law or in the good faith belief that such disclosure is necessary to: (i) conform to the edicts of law or comply with legal process served on IACP or any of its affiliated entities; (ii) protect and defend the rights of IACP or any of its affiliated entities, and/or (iii) act under exigent circumstances to protect the personal safety of users of this application or the general public.

IACP is unable to prevent children under the age of thirteen (13) from downloading this application. However, no part of this application is directed at or intended for persons under the age of thirteen (13). If you are under the age of thirteen (13), please do not access this application at any time or in any manner. In order to comply with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act, IACP will not knowingly collect personally identifiable information from children under the age of thirteen (13). If, at any time, IACP learns or gains knowledge that personally identifiable information has been collected from person(s) under the age of thirteen (13) without verified parental consent, IACP will take the appropriate steps to delete such information.

From time to time, IACP may employ independent contractors, vendors and suppliers ("Outside Contractors") to provide specific services and products related to the application, including but not limited to, performing general statistical analysis, maintaining an email suppression list as may be required by state and/or federal law, fraud screening, testing and implementation of special services to users, and developing additional applications. Although unlikely, these Outside Contractors may have limited access to information collected by use of this application. These Outside Contractors will not be permitted to disclose any information that could identify you without your express written consent

IACP may revise this privacy policy, in its sole discretion, at any time by posting the amended privacy policy on this site. For your convenience, the date of last revision has been included at the top this page. By using the app after we post any changes to this privacy policy, you agree to accept those changes, whether or not you have reviewed them. Your continued use of the application after changes have been posted will constitute your acceptance of such changes.
